1. Background

The earliest mention of a medical practitioner serving the Haxby/Wigginton area is of a Dr Hood who practised in York and held a monthly surgery in the building next door to the Fish and Chip shop in Haxby, this would be before 1920. Since that time the practice has changed through patient growth, merger and business development into a sizeable and diverse NHS service provider.

The York Practice now has a GMS (General Medical Services) contract with the NHS and provides a full range of primary care services and additional services from 6 different locations in the City. Its Practice area arcs from the North East to the South West and includes the urban/suburban extremities of the City and beyond to some outlying villages. The main site is in the Health Centre at Haxby/Wigginton. The second largest surgery, Gale Farm, serves the suburban area of Acomb. Our Huntington surgery is the third largest. The three smaller sites are based at New Earswick, amongst the original Joseph Rowntree “garden village” social housing development, at Stockton on the Forest, a small rural village outside the City and Poppleton, a semi-rural suburban village. Stockton also provides dispensing services to its patients and to the Poppleton patients. In all we serve approximately 33,000 patients. Additionally, we have been providing local anaesthetic vasectomy services to the patients of York and North Yorkshire from our York Practice for nearly 10 years.

In 2009 as Haxby Business Group (HBG Ltd) we started a new venture to improve access to GP services in Hull as part of the Equitable Access to Primary Care Initiative. We opened three brand new GP practices with very different demographics in the Kingswood, Priory Road and Orchard Park areas covering the North and West of the City and part of the East Riding of Yorkshire. We have developed a strong Hull-based team providing a full range of primary care services to roughly 11500 patients under an APMS contract. In 2013 we were approached by Burnbrae Surgery in East Hull and formed a new Partnership with HBG Ltd as a corporate partner. This well-established Practice provides GMS contract services to an additional 5,000 patients.

We have a long and successful history of involvement with medical training and education and in both Cities we support GP trainees with GP Partners as trainers across all our sites. We have a long-standing relationship with Hull and York Medical School and support students from all years of their Medical course in both Cities.

Both our Hull and York Practices have been appointed as Advanced Training Practices, providing training infrastructure and inter-professional teaching and learning for undergraduate and post graduate nursing students, mentoring nurse practitioners and other health professionals and training HCAs. Part of our ATP role is as a hub to support other practices with this work and in training their nurses and HCAs.

We are research accredited and work with the local primary care research network to support projects in both Hull and York.

In 2010, we teamed up with local pharmacist, Richard Harrison Ltd, to form a new venture as Haxby Group Pharmacy (HGP Ltd). It now operates two pharmacies in York at Huntington and Haxby surgeries. Following our merge with Gale Farm partnership in April this year we became a partner with Community pharmacies UK in an LLP joint venture running a pharmacy at Gale Farm surgery.

We are a high achieving organisation that meets its targets such as the Quality and outcomes Framework and in the standards of performance required by our contracts and as expected and needed by our patients.

We aim to involve and communicate with and listen to our patients as best as possible and have active Patient Participation Groups and disease specific support groups. In addition we are very active with other forms of communication including website, strong social media presence and a professional quarterly newsletter. There are regular patient surveys such as the friends and family test.

We are organised into teams by specialisation, such as finance, nurses or data, or by geography, such as surgery. We value our staff very highly and support them in their role and ambitions through training and appraisals. We also try to communicate and listen with our staff through regular staff surveys, away days and regular social functions.

We have a clear Mission to “work together to provide a caring, quality service to our patients” and an ethos based on three key principles, Professionalism, Unity and Balance.

To be professional we aim to be the best that we can be, to apply the best standards that are possible, to be advocates for the patient and high quality contract performers. We have a comprehensive range of policies and protocols, clinical and non-clinical and are a learning organisation that listens to complaints and reviews significant events in a supportive learning fashion.

To be unified we work as a team and in teams, offer supportive, comprehensive employment policies, accept and value each other’s role as important in the delivery of healthcare and a quality service and listen to each other. We do not discriminate for reasons of disability, age, race or religion and we work with and listen to our patients.

For balance we apply good judgement in the use and application of resources, skill, or medical care. We ensure that we maintain perspective and are as fair as possible in all our dealings. We also ensure that our employment style and work ethic invigorates and supports our team in a positive and happy environment.
